Lisa Remington, CWP Earns Certification

Lisa Remington, CWP, from Something Sew Unique has earned the title of Certified Workroom Professional, which indicates expertise in the field of drapery fabrication.

Lisa was awarded certification on 12/29/2007 after passing a comprehensive course covering textile information, safety standards, fabrication techniques for various window treatments, customer relations, window treatment knowledge and product applications.

The test is based on a workroom-training package developed by the Window Coverings Association of America. The program was developed to provide professional advice and instructions to help workroom professionals better serve their customers.

The Window Coverings Association of America was founded in 1987 and is the nations' leading non-profit organization representing window covering retailers. Its goals are to make available educational and motivational opportunities, to work for the betterment of the interior fashions industry and to encourage a code of ethics for fair business practices.
